Guest Speaker: CLAYTON ROBINS

Restoring Soils Using Annuals

Clayton Robins operates a mixed family farm in Rivers, Manitoba with a primary focus on beef production at the present time: cow/calf, back-grounding, and custom grazing. Sheep production was included for about 30 years until 2009. He graduated from the University of Manitoba in 1989 with a BSc in Agriculture.

- Spent over 20 years with AAFC Research Branch in Brandon studying beef and forage production: including extending the grazing season, forage-based finishing, greenhouse gas mitigation, modeling, cultivar development, and energetic efficiencies. Through this has co-authored a number of scientific papers.
- Spent several years working on Ag industry development as a member of numerous Boards and committees, including terms as Chair.
- Through coaching sport, volunteer time and Board positions with Ag in the Classroom, Provincial Exhibition of Manitoba and other such youth education programs, youth development has been and continues to be an important part of his private life for over 40 years.
- Executive Director of Manitoba 4-H Council for 7 years.
- Awarded one of the 2013 Nuffield Canada Scholarships, touring the world to study the potential for energy-dense forages in the Canadian beef production model and has since delivered presentations on the concept in 8 countries.
- Served as an Officer-Director for 3 terms on the Executive of the Canadian Society of Animal Science, helping to organize 4 international academic conferences.
- Designated presenter in the Ag More Than Ever Speakers' Bureau.
- Currently employed with Manitoba Beef and Forage Inc., supporting research and extension projects.
